NWRA'S Legislative Wins

COVID-19 NWRA's quick response

The service our waste and recycling industry provides not only keeps our streets clean but also protects the public's health by disposing of waste. The Department of Homeland Security designated waste collection as "Essential Critical Infrastructure" at the request of NWRA in the early weeks of the viral outbreak.

FMCSA ELD Exemption Exclusive for NWRA

Considering the benefits that NWRA's safety and education programs have for the Association's members, the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA) decided to exclusively offer Electronic Logging Device (ELD) exemptions for waste collection vehicles to NWRA members.

Finding Drivers NWRA supporting Veterans entering our industry

NWRA backs Veterans and members of the National Guard & Reserves to address the hiring challenges facing the waste and recycling industry due to shortages of commercial vehicle drivers, mechanics and welders.

Collect
Recycle
Innovate

FMCSA Electronic Logging Device Exemption

FMCSA has granted NWRA a rare Hours-of-Service exemption exclusively to its members, eliminating the need for them to purchase and use ELDs as otherwise is required under the new rule. NWRA submitted its exemption request on behalf of the entire waste and recycling industry, but FMCSA narrowed the scope to just NWRA members.

Build Your Network

Attend member-only chapter, local and national events to network with members and industry leaders, meet new customers and help your business thrive. NWRA councils and committees offer members the ability to focus on specific areas of interest within the industry. NWRA's Safety Committee, Future Industry Leadership Alliance, Healthcare Waste Institute, Landfill Institute, Recycling Committee, and Women's Council are all highly active.

Education, Information & Market Statistics

NWRA's highly attended and in-demand webinars focus on topics and trends important to our members. Newsletters, industry reports and educational sessions keep you informed about the latest trends and help you make business decisions. NWRA's market statistics and data program provides economic trend analyses and forecasts for your industry, helping you gauge your company's performance and develop better business plans.

Advocates Of Safety For Our Industry's Workers

NWRA's Safety Committee is dedicated to bold, strategic efforts focused on best-in-class safety performance. NWRA's Safety Monday e-newsletter, safety manuals and seminars help you train your personnel to reduce injuries and fatalities. ANS Z245 safety standards set performance standards for waste and recycling equipment and facilities in all 50 states.
