

Excellence in Recycling Public Education Award

This award is open to public, private and non-governmental organizations that exemplify excellence in recycling or sustainability public education programs. Applicants should submit program materials and methodologies, as well as data that quantify the impact and success of the program.

Nomination Payment Information - $150

How to Enter - Submit documents by July 1, 2023.

Questions? Please contact Anne Germain, agermain@wasterecycling.org

Nominating Guidelines

Excellence in Recycling Public Education nominations will be considered by NWRA's Recycling Committee based upon the specific examples of how this program improved recycling.

For the award, please submit the following information in a single PDF or zip file. Please do not exceed 20 pages including all photos, figures, and attachments.

Applicant Information

Please provide contact info for the award – this is the person that prepares the award and deals with the administration of the application.

Please provide information about people that were pivotal to the success of the public education program development and deployment.

Educator's Qualifying Criteria

NWRA's Recycling Committee will evaluate award applications based on how the Recycling Public Education Program has improved recycling.

Provide a narrative giving background on the education program. In the narrative, include details about why the program was conceived, its goals, its approach and how it was deployed. Discuss where it is currently being utilized, costs, and measurable results. Data can be presented in the narrative or through charts and graphs.

A picture is worth a thousand words. Please include color photographs, drawings, or schematics to illustrate the innovation.

Additional information: Please add any additional information including letters of recommendations, copies of brochures and print ads, links to videos etc.

Discuss any awards, honors or recognition already received.